A “traditional” Clambake does not only involve clams, as the name suggests – but also a main course of lobster. They’re usually done on a beach, but at Shaw’s, when you pull up to the curb by the outdoor canopy you’ll see lobster, clams, mussels and sausage grilling right on the coals next to fresh corn on the cob. It’s a wonderful way to celebrate a summer’s night outside on the patio while listening to a lively Chicago Blues band.
